

Like This

This morning the rain was a standing ovation
for a sleep which was one of my best in years.
From behind the curtains I could hear the applause.
I opened the window and bowed.